

The diagram illustrates the evolution of a protein structure. The top row shows a linear sequence of amino acids (represented by colored blocks) that folds into a complex, functional structure. The bottom row shows a linear sequence of amino acids that folds into a simple, non-functional structure. The labels 'Coding' and 'Non-coding' are placed to the right of the respective rows.

